

Coffee Stained Pages: International Women's Day

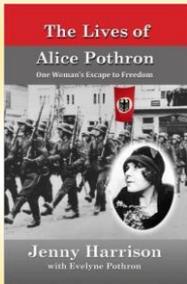

The latest from 'Writers Plot Readers Read'.

March 8, 2017

To celebrate International Women's Day, we're delighted to highlight some of the new books in the shop about amazing women, in both fiction and non-fiction.

Many of our books have strong female characters - go to our website to browse. Remember you can purchase from the website - just click Buy Now.

New books in the shop:

The Lives of Alice Pothron by Jenny Harrison

In July 1939, Emile and Alice Pothron, naturalized American citizens, travelled to their native France for a much-needed six-week vacation. It would be four years before they would return to the United States. This harrowing, yet uplifting account, tells the story of the Pothrons' ordeal from the perspective of Alice and daughter Evelyn; the separation of a family; life in a German prisoner of war camp and the nightmare of living at the whim of occupying Nazi soldiers. RRP $26

Something Borrowed by Louisa George

When Chloe Cassidy is jilted at the altar it's all her nightmares rolled into one. Her mother is convinced she's the victim of the family curse. Her sister believes she just hasn't found The One yet. But Chloe's not listening; she's too busy taking her humiliation out on the infuriating best man, Vaughn Brooks. RRP $25

Unwilling to Break by Teresa Schulz

Emma Johnson thinks she has a good marriage. Everyone has their problems, right? However, all this changes when she becomes payment to Albanian drug dealers, in lieu of her husband Greg's debt. RRP $18

Forgiven by Geoff Lawson

Rachel is intelligent, cultured and charming, but things are not as well as they seem. She reaches a low point in her life when she is brought down by rumour and innuendo, but with Richards support all is well until Richard volunteers to fight in South Africa and leaves Rachel under a cloud. RRP $27

Private Viewing by Geoff Palmer

Jane Child doesn't think much of her boss when she's passed over for promotion. But Jane finds consolation in the shape of the man she was passed over for. Celebrity banker Damien Trotter has it all ... and a shocking secret. Set in contemporary London, Private Viewing is a romantic thriller. RRP $35

Books for the younger readers:

Grandmas Written and Illustrated by Liz Askin

'Grandmas' is a quirky account of various Grandmas' activities observed over the years since the author became a Grandma.
